Transfer Builds Resilience: Strengthening Transfer Student Mindsets

When students come to UT, they may question if they have what it takes to keep up academically or if they will find their place within the Longhorn community.

We know that transfer students are resilient and, with the right mindset, peer wisdom, and resources, they thrive at UT. Join us to learn more about these tools and how to use them to make your spring semester a success!

Transitioning from High School Writing to College Writing

This is a presentation that introduces students to some of the salient expectations and conventions of university-level writing. It explores the key differences between high school and college-level and gives students an opportunity to raise questions and concerns regarding college writing standards. This presentation prepares students to close read assignment prompts and scholarly articles. It also dispels certain “myths” that new college students tend to believe about writing, such as “good writers write quickly and effortlessly.

A Home Away from Home

The MEC has six different identity-based student organizations that host cultural, diversity, and social justice-oriented programs throughout the year. Come learn about these different programs and services that the MEC has to offer.
